Welcome to the new, monthly 2 hour Sunday restorative class at The Yoga Fusion in San Ramon. The longer one engages a dynamic, active yoga practice, the more they begin to intuitively know that there is another, undiscovered aspect of yoga. This unexplored aspect of yoga is the deep, passive, supported relaxation and release of restorative practice. There is a quality of relaxation that is beyond the conscious control of the mind and that is beyond the capacity of the body to achieve through any active means.

Restorative yoga is incredibly relaxing and healing; it simply feels great and is a wonderful gift to yourself and your body. Most restorative poses last for 5 - 20 minutes apiece and give ample time for all of the body's primary systems to reset and rejuvenate in a way that hours or days of regular sleep cannot accomplish. One restorative class per month, done regularly, can take years of stress off your body and will give you the resources of calm and vitality that make life worth living.
